the postmodern and secular culture of the west requires a new reflection on god the implicit theology of the lord s prayer a biblical and theological investigation reflects on god on the basis of an original and central expression of the christian faith the lord s prayer first jan muis interprets the divine names central to this prayer in their biblical contexts next muis understands the divine attributes implied by these names from the biblical narrative of god's self-revealing actions and explains them in a contemporary framework god's name indicates his particular personal presence and encounter with human beings the holiness of god's name and the justice of his kingship are more than just aspects of the love of the father the son and the spirit the creator is not a human blown large in his companionship with humans he remains the exalted who lives both within and beyond created temporal reality in the context of a secular age muis discusses in what sense this god exists is the doctrine of the holy spirit in christian theology good news or bad news for women is the holy spirit in traditional christian doctrine the guardian of the status quo or does it offer the dynamic possibility for change how do the gifts of the spirit ecstatic and relational inform feminist thinking of the christian god opinions on these key questions vary wildly but are often formulated without coherent theological argument feminist theology has a history of questioning god the father and god the son this study begins the theological questioning of god the holy spirit searching for the holy spirit brings feminist pneumatology into discussion with more traditional doctrine of the spirit notably the very significant early christian treatise by basil of caesarea de spiritu sancto the results offer exciting new possibilities for both theology and the place of women in the church a a van ruler is one of the most influential twentieth century theologians from the netherlands one of the many challenging aspects of his work is his theology of the kingdom of god and its relationship to the church and its ecclesiastical offices allan j janssen draws on extensive pastoral and ecclesial experience as well as closely reasoned analysis to draw out the implications of van ruler's theology for the church today today some years after the first democratic elections in south africa as well as the final report of the truth and reconciliation commission trc it is clear that reconciliation is still needed on all terrains of south african society more and more people are becoming aware of unchanneled emotions such as guilt fury revenge and grief which are still alive in south africa and which come to fore in different ways it seems as if reconciliation is a process that will in fact take years if not generations the task of the trc has been completed but the task of reconciliation on all levels in south african society and the debate surrounding it are far from complete very little research has been conducted to understand both the process and the kinds of reconciliation rituals that are needed and this is exactly the aim of the research described in this book the research described here aims at making a contribution towards the process of reconciliation in south africa by specifically looking at one small but important element in that process namely ritual to this end several ritual probes were conducted including an ethnographic probe describing research by means of participatory observation in local south african communities as well as a cultural anthropological biblical historical and descriptive probe from these probes ritual qualities were distilled which can be used for the liturgical inculturation of rituals of reconciliation in south africa what is the place and vocation of human beings in the earth community this is the central question that this contribution towards a christian ecological anthropology addresses in ecological theology this question is often answered by the affirmation that we are at home on earth this affirmation rightly responds to the widespread sense of alienation from nature to the anthropocentrism that pervades much of the christian tradition and to concerns about the scope of environmental devastation this book challenges the affirmation that we are at home on earth examining natural suffering anxieties concerning human finitude and especially the pervasiveness of evil the book investigates contributions to ecological theology south african and african theology reformed theology and contemporary dialogues between theology and the sciences in search of a thoroughly ecological christian anthropology
